Calendar of Events

THURSDAY, JANUARY 23

Dr. Faye Smith, Director of Southwest Arkansas Diagnostic and Remedial Center in Magnolia, Arkansas, will be guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Bodcaw PTA in the school cafeteria, January 23 at 7 p.m.

An interesting program is planned by Dr. Smith and all parents are urged to attend. Do-nuts and coffee will be served.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 24

The Friday Music Club will meet Friday, January 24 at 3:45 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Jewel Moore, Jr. with Mrs. McDowell Turner and Mrs. Arthur Wimmell, co-hostesses. Members are reminded of the stamp project for Inspiration Point.

HOPE HIGH SPANISH CLUB HOLDS ANNUAL BANQUET

The Hope High School Spanish Club had their annual banquet Monday night January 20, in the dining room of the Diamond Cafe. The banquet was in honor of the new members. The guest speaker was Rev. Gordon Renshaw of the Unity Baptist Church. Rev. Renshaw entertained the club with slides of his trip to Mexico. Peggy King also entertained with a Spanish song accompanied by Becky Huff.

The new members were pledged into the Spanish Club and each was presented with a rose, the national flower of Mexico.

LADIES ALTAR SOCIETY HOLDS FUND RAISING PROJECT

It was a fun-filled evening at the Catholic Parish Hall on Monday, January 20, when the Ladies Altar Society sponsored a fund-raising project that attracted about 60 people. They played games with prizes that ranged from a roll of pennies to a home-made cake. A winner never knew whether the prize would be large or small, and this added to the excitement. Coffee was served throughout the entertainment.

DUPPLICATE BRIDGE CLUB

Mrs. Syd McMath and Mrs. R.L. Bruch teamed up to take first place in the scoring at the Hope Duplicate Bridge Club meeting Monday, January 20 at the Diamond.

Dr. George Wright and Mike Kelly tied with Mrs. Thomas Hays and Mrs. E.P. Young, Jr. for second place. There were four tables of players.

MORGAN - GRIFFIN VOWS EXCHANGED

The First Baptist Church of Stephens was the setting for the Saturday, December 21 wedding of Miss Claudia Ann Morgan and James Robert Griffin. The bride is the daughter of Mayor and Mrs. James B. Morgan of Stephens, and Mr. Griffin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert William Griffin of Fulton.

The Rev. Bruce Murphy performed the double-ring ceremony. Miss Peggy Glover of Smackover, vocalist, and Miss Diane Ferrell, organist, presented the nuptial music.

Mr. Morgan gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a floor-length gown of Chantilly lace designed with an empire waist. The neckline was embellished with pearls and sequins, hand-scalloped lace applique detailed the long sleeves, and there was a detachable train of sheer illusion. A crown of matching lace embroidered with pearls and sequins held her bridal veil. She carried a white Bible topped with an orchid.

Miss Jamie Marie Morgan was her sister's maid of honor. The bride was also attended by Miss Judy Davis, Shannon Spooner of Monroe, La., was flower girl, and Larry Griffin of Columbus was ring bearer.

John William Griffin was his brother's best man, and Charles Hubert Coleman, brother-in-law of the groom, was the groomsman.

Ushers were: Bev Morgan, brother of the bride, Charles Hubert Coleman, and David Norville of Hope.

Before the ceremony, Wade Spooner of Monroe, La., and Wayne Griffin of Columbus lighted the candles.

Following the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Morgan were hosts for a reception in the church Fellowship Hall, honoring the couple. Miss Vickie Lyn Davis of Abilene, Tex., and Mrs. Tommy Roland of Arkadelphia assisted at the serving table. Mrs. Charles Hubert Coleman, sister of the groom, kept the bride's book. Miss Mary Ann Lester, cousin of the bride, and Kathy Griffin, cousin of the groom, gave rice bags to the guests.

After a brief wedding trip, the couple is at home at the Starlite Apartments in Arkadelphia, where the bride is continuing her education at Ouachita Baptist University. The groom is a teacher in the Sparkman School.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were: Mike Butler Hot Springs; Mr. and Mrs. James Smalley, James and Glenda, Magnolia; Mr. and Mrs. Milton Green, El Dorado; Miss Poong Ja Kahng, Southern State College; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Spooner, Brent and Mike, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Spooner, all of Monroe, La.; Mrs. Virgil Allison and daughter, Lake Charles, La.; Mr. and Mrs. Charley Griffin and Kathy, Mr. and Mrs. A.W. McIver, Jr. and Peggy; Mrs. Herbert Griffin, all of Hope; Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Griffin, Wayne and Larry, Mrs. John Griffin, all of Columbus; and Mrs. Wayne Griffin, Magnolia.

Coming, Going

Sgt. Jim Willis has returned to the states after a year's tour of duty in Thailand. His wife, the former Betty Saunders, and 13 sons have joined him in F. Worth after spending the past year in Hope with her mother, Mrs. Henry Saunders.

The Rev. and Mrs. S. Joseph Geno and Gloria moved last week to their new home in Granite City, Ill. He had served as pastor of the Southside Assembly of God Church and as an announcer at KXAR.

Mrs. Harry McEmore is in Abilene, Tex., visiting her sister, Mrs. Edith Thornton, and other relatives.

The B.W. Edwards family went to Monticello Sunday for mid-term graduation at Arkansas A&M, at which Morton Wheatley, husband of the former Virginia Edwards, received a BS degree in Forestry. Only 5 received this degree among the 124 who earned diplomas.

Freeze Your Own Fruit

You can make your own low calorie frozen fruit. Select unbruised mature fruit at the peak of ripeness. Wash whole fruit and fill a plastic bag with it. (You can put it in a box to get a stackable shape.) Cover fruit with pure bottled spring water (tap water is not recommended because of chemical content) and place bag in freezer. Do not tie as bag will break as water expands. When frozen, tie closed and remove from container. When you thaw fruit, save water for gelatin desserts or in instant beverages.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

MR. CLEAN IS PICKY, PICKY, PICKY

Dear Helen: What do you do with a nasty-nice husband?

He examines each plate, cup, piece of silverware, etc. before using them, to be sure they're clean. This happens not only when we're home but when we're out. I keep a clean house and my dishes are as spotless as a dishwasher can make them.

I've talked to him about his embarrassing ways, but it doesn't help. He isn't especially picky other ways. What can I do?—T.Y.

Dear T: Perhaps your husband doesn't trust automatic dishwashers—and sometimes a good reason: They don't "see" caked-on food. (But at least they sterilize what they don't remove, comforting thought.)

When he examines dishes away from home, kick his shins. At home? Tell him if he doesn't like 'em, wash 'em himself. That habit is a hurry.—H.

Dear Helen: I have been terribly sad woman since my husband left me for another woman. That was 20 years ago. I lived my whole life for my daughter, gave up everything for her, but now that she is 22 she is a spoiled brat who pushes me aside. She prefers her father, and the husky he married! I'm sick and live on pills, but she never notices. I can't work due to nerves, but she always telling me how healthy I look. She won't take me out. She won't even listen to me. And life for her after my husband deserted us.

Now that the child support is gone, I must live on the alimony. My daughter has the nerve to suggest I get a job and "let Dad off the hook." That's gratitude! I'm 43, alone and miserable. No one understands what it's like to be abandoned by those you love. Do you have some words for my daughter?—ABANDONED

Dear Ab: . . . None you'd want to hear!

Self-pitying females wouldn't recognize the truth even if it jumped out at them from their own letters. Why bother?—H.

Dear Helen: I have been married twice and my second husband is a good man, but still when some other guy gives me attention, I feel strangely attracted to him. I love my husband what's wrong?—MIXED-UP WIFE, AGE 22

Dear Wife: Nothing's wrong. Any normal female is attracted to a man who appreciates her as a woman—that is if he isn't a complete dud. But "attraction" doesn't mean bed-hopping, here. It's more like pleasant friendship between the sexes, and that's entirely possible, you know.—H.

Dear Helen: This is to "Irritated and Mad" who blamed the school bus driver for putting her "little darling" off to work home. If she wants an eyep opener, she should ride the bus once in a while. Those "little darlings" can cause accidents when they

More power to the bus driver! Better a kid walk a mile self or somebody else by throwing things or otherwise raising Cain.—H.R.R.

P.S. My kid's favorite bus driver was one who insisted that they behave themselves. He got respect!

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

A Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Had William Shakespeare been around 350 years later, knocking out material for what is known as "The media," it is very probable that his line about "sermons in stones" would have rolled out of his electric typewriter as "sermons in situation comedies."

By order of the television code, the lesson that "Crime doesn't pay" is implicit in every program involving crooks and the law. There also seems to be some unwritten rule about packing a neat little lesson in everyday living in among the laughs of our people—next-door comedies.

On a single night—Tuesday—viewers learned painlessly from "Julia" that pride must never be confused with self-righteousness, and, 30 minutes later, "The Doris Day show" was a demonstration about interfering parents.

All things considered, NBC's "Julia" and its helpful hints are considerably easier to take than CBS's homilies wrapped around the person of Miss Day. For one thing, the former is a wittier, more urbane half hour which, while hardly a realistic portrait of the home and office life of a registered nurse, still has plenty of spirit and that elusive quality called charm.

Miss Day can handle broad comedy with the best of them—she survived several undignified knocks in the seat of her tailored slacks and was thoroughly smeared with raw eggs in the most recent outing. But the series is beset by the kind of bucolic, tired stories that were predictable as far back as "The Donna Reed Show." It is further afflicted by a loud and misbegotten laugh track.

One of the great pluses of "Julia" is, of course, its forthright handling of Negro-white relationships. In the Tuesday night show, the attractive character played by Diahann Carroll encountered a touchy, militant football star obviously on the lookout for slights and put-downs. At the climax, Julia read the young man off, of course, and changed his life.

Somewhat Miss Carroll's winning ways and the persuasive writing permit what could be pretty sticky stuff to come off nicely. "Julia" week in and week out, remains a bright new series that really deserves its niche among the top 20 shows.

NBC's "Laugh-In" climbed back into first place in the most recent Nielsen ratings report, covering the period between Jan. 6-12.

Other entertainment shows in the top ten were, in the following order, NBC's "Bonanza," CBS's Gomer Pyle and "Bever-

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Commodore Clifford Edgecombe, winding up a 45-year career at sea, brought the liner Orina and 1,133 passengers into port Tuesday. It sails Wednesday for Australia and finally home to Southampton, England. Then Edgecombe will retire as commodore of the Pacific and Orient Line—and says he plans to return as a tourist.

Crochet Baby Greeting

By JUDY LOVE

Small talk for needleworkers usually centers around knits and crochets for tiny tots.

The young citizen styles I'm featuring today will give you plenty of conversation and a wonderful wardrobe for your favorite little boy or girl.

You can crochet a hood and mitten set or a matching Sunday-best outfit which includes sacque, soaker and cap. All are crocheted in Bernal's Nylo Germantown yarn which you can wash and dry by machine. Each of the styles was designed with the beginning needleworker in mind, so that even a novice can follow the easy instructions.

For your copy of an instruction leaflet for all five young-world styles, send 50 cents to Stitchin' Time, c/o your local newspaper, Box 503, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. Be sure to ask for leaflet S160 and include your name, address and zip code.

Sheriff's Association Elects New Officers

The Arkansas Sheriffs' Association held their 1969 Annual Convention in Little Rock on January 14, 15 & 16 at the Marion Hotel.

Sheriff Kenneth Guthrie of Lawrence County was elected and installed as the new President of the Association for the ensuing year 1969. He succeeds Sheriff Clyde Hawkins of Scott County who served as President during the convention replacing former Sheriff B. Frank Mackey who served as President until his election as County Judge of Pulaski County.

Other new officers elected were: Sheriff Marion Thomas, First Vice-President, Crittenden County; Sheriff Ray Holmes, Second Vice-President, Poinsett County; Sheriff Warren Minton, Third Vice-President, Lonoke County; Sheriff Jimmie Griffin, Fourth Vice-President, Hempstead County; Sheriff Billy Bert French, Fifth Vice-President, Lincoln County; Sheriff Jake Williams, Sixth Vice-President, Van Buren County; Sheriff Otto Brinkman, Seventh Vice-President, Pope County; Sheriff Bill Vickery, Chaplain, Crawford County; Sheriff Robert S. Moore, Executive Secretary, Desha County; Glenn Knight, Field Secretary, Little Rock.

Sheriff Monroe Love of Pulaski County was the host for the convention. Serving as hostesses were Mrs. B. Frank Mackey, Mrs. Clyde Hawkins, Mrs. Kenneth Guthrie and Mrs. Bud Canada. Highlights for the ladies were a brunch honoring wives of the new sheriffs and a buffet dinner and show at the Olde West Theatre.

The 1969 meeting stressed more informal discussions led by our Senators and Representatives concerning proposed legislation affecting law enforcement which is to be presented during the 1969 session of the legislature. This was deemed most important because of the tremendous increase in the rate of crime in our nation and the disrespect for law and order.

Featured speakers at the banquet held Wednesday evening were Representative Ivan Rose and Senator Jim Caldwell of Benton County.

Highlights of the convention were the honoring of Charlene Hickey, wife of Sheriff Marion Hickey, Phillips County, as Sheriff's Wife of the Year. She had previously been honored during the year as Outstanding Teacher of the Year by the Arkansas Education Association.

Also, the performance of little Bill Vickery, two-year-old son of Sheriff and Mrs. Bill Vickery of Crawford County, as a Razorback of 1969, dressed in full uniform, was enjoyed by all.

The Pea Ridge Ridge Runners directed by Sheriff Lee Owen, performed at the banquet.

The business sessions included the following outstanding men concerned with law enforcement: Col. Ralph Scott,

Group Against Filibuster See No Hope

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leaders of the Senate antifilibuster forces have given up, for this Congress at least, efforts to ease the rule requiring a two-thirds vote to limit debate.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said in an interview that he and several allies will not push further the drive started when Congress convened Jan. 3 to substitute a three-fifths vote to end filibusters.

Defenders of the present stiffer rule, led by Southern Democrats, have been filibustering against taking up the proposed amendment to halt debate by a three-fifths majority of those voting.

Last Thursday the Senate voted 51 to 47 to close out the debate on the motion to consider the three-fifths proposal. This was 15 votes short of a two-thirds majority.

But Hubert H. Humphrey, who as the then vice president was presiding officer, ruled that only a simple majority was necessary to cut off the debate. But the Senate refused 53 to 45 to sustain Humphrey's ruling.

Humphrey's ruling was based on the claim that the start of a new Congress the Senate has a constitutional right to adopt new rules of procedure by a simple majority.

Church now says this issue will not be raised with the new vice president, Spiro T. Agnew.

Instead, Church said, a second attempt will be made next week to cut off the debate under the existing rule requiring a two-thirds majority of senators voting.

Director Arkansas State Police: Herbert Hoxie, Special Agent in Charge F.B.I. for the State of Arkansas; Robert Sarver, Department of Correction; John H. Hickey, Commissioner on Crime & Law Enforcement; Joe B. Gaspard, Alcoholic Beverage Control; Col. George V. Armstrong, Ark. Law Enforcement Training Academy; and Col. Carl Miller, Arkansas State Police, Retired.

The convention closed with the installation of the new officers by Attorney General Joe Purcell.

Sirhan Case Locked in Maneuvers

By LINDA DEUTSCH Associated Press Writer LOS ANGELES (AP) — The defense and prosecution in the Sirhan Bishara Sirhan murder trial were locked today in courtroom maneuvering that could delay seating a jury for another week or more.

The use of peremptory challenges was started unexpectedly Tuesday, the day on which it had been indicated a tentative jury would be accepted.

Sirhan is accused of fatally shooting Sen. Robert F. Kennedy last June.

Both sides had hinted earlier they might waive the 20 challenges allowed them to remove a prospective juror without citing a reason. But as the trial entered its third week Tuesday, each side used one such challenge.

The prosecution last Friday accepted a tentative panel of jurors "as now constituted." The defense was to give its decision Tuesday.

Then one tentative juror, Helen L. Woodworth, was excused for medical reasons. She was replaced by Geraldine Scherer, retired antique dealer from nearby Whittier, and defense attorney Grant B. Cooper said the defense would accept the jury, including Mrs. Scherer.

At that point, Chief Deputy Dist. Atty. Lynn D. Compton withdrew the prosecution's acceptance of the jury, saying it wasn't the same jury as was seated Friday. He used a peremptory challenge to remove from the panel Dora Jacobi.

Cooper later used a peremptory challenge to remove Leslie H. Laney, a postal employee.

Henry Miller, a civilian employee of the Long Beach naval shipyard, was tentatively seated.

Judge Herbert V. Walker excused one prospective juror after she announced: "I am unequivocally opposed to capital punishment, whether done by an individual or the state."

Walker also excused two women who objected to being sequestered in a hotel for months. They both said their sons are returning home from Vietnam.

During the questioning, Sirhan, thin and sallow, maintained a calm expression, smiling and nodding several times to his mother, Mary, and his brother, Adel, seated in the back of the courtroom. Sirhan read a newspaper clipping about the trial handed to him by defense attorney Russell B. Parsons. And, at one point, consulting with Parsons, Sirhan appeared to cover his mouth to stifle a giggle.

FORCED AIR FURNACES NEED PERIODIC MAINTENANCE

By MR. FIX

Just because your furnace is working doesn't mean that it is working efficiently. You can reduce fuel bills, make your house warmer and save wear and tear on your heating plant by keeping it tuned up. The output of the furnace may not be increased, but less heat will be going up the chimney to warm the cold outdoors.

In a hot-air system, remember that effectiveness depends on efficient air distribution. One way to keep the warm air coming through the registers is to keep them clean. Give them a regular vacuum cleaning along with the floors. Once every season you may wish to take them apart for a more thorough cleaning.

Keep the filter on the furnace clean. Changing the air filter at the beginning of the heating season is not enough. Imagine how much better the air would flow through the system with no filter at all. Since that is impossible because dust would be blowing through your home all the time, do the next best thing by impeding the flow of air as little as possible. As a layer of dirt builds up on the air filter, less warm air enters the house and more of it goes up the chimney. The furnace works harder to heat the house to the desired thermostat setting.

The blower should be kept clean. With the power turned off or the thermostat turned to a low setting so that the furnace and blower will not go on, clean out all dirt. Dust and lint tend to accumulate on the fan blades, cutting down on their efficiency.

Check the fan belt for wear. Make certain it is not too slack. Replace worn belts.

Examine ductwork for leaks. Warm air escaping from seams in the ducts is warm air that is not heating your upstairs rooms. Seal these areas with special aluminum tape made for ducts.

Dampers on ducts leading to various rooms control the flow of warm air to these rooms. If temperatures vary two or three degrees from the thermostat setting, try adjusting the dampers. A damper full open will offer no hindrance to a flow of air. Closing slightly will close off the flow of air and at the same time cause more heat to be sent to an adjacent room.

Make certain that the fan control (this is on the furnace) is working properly. The thermostat in your house turns on the heat but there is an interval before the fan goes on. This is so that the fan does not distribute cold air to the house. When the air in the furnace is warm enough, the fan will go on if the control is properly set. Once the heat is off, the fan will continue for a few minutes to distribute the last bit of warm air.

Making adjustments is the job of a trained man with proper equipment. But simple observation on your part will tell you if adjustment is necessary.

Check your thermostat if your house cools off too much before the furnace goes on and if it stays on too long. Rotate the control in either direction. If it moves through more than a couple of degrees before the furnace goes on or off, something is wrong. If blowing out dust and wiping off controls have no effect, install a new thermostat. They are inexpensive.

TIMELY QUOTES

We must act boldly without fear or excessive force. We have neglected criminal justice too long. Now we must professionalize police, affording them the manpower and competence required to perform their mission. Adequate effort on the underlying causes is also essential to control crime. The prescription demands hard work, determination, sacrifice and years.

Hope Girls and B Boys Post Wins

By RALPH ROUNTON
Star Sports Writer

Employing a pressing defense and fast break to perfection through the second half, the Hope "B" Lizards came from behind to pop the Mineral Springs Hornets 79-64 in the finale last night at Mineral Springs.

In the opener, the Hope Lady Cats rushed to their fifth straight win by outlasting the Mineral Springs girls 60-54.

With a 9-7 mark entering tonight's battle with Delight at 8:40 p.m. in the Gordon Invitational, the Lady Cats still went through an off game last night, and only a surplus of fouls made the score so high.

Losing an early 3-0 margin with a three minute silence, the Ladies found themselves behind 9-5 with 3:10 left in the quarter. Then came the big takeover, as forward Sandra Salcedo made a move which put Hope out front 15-10 at the quarter.

Impressive on defense, the locals soon had amassed a 20-12 lead before Mineral Springs began capitalizing on the extreme number of fouls. With 2:25 to play in the half, Lady Cat guard Jenny Callicott fouled out of the game, but replacement Brenda Lester did a good job from there on.

Those free throws kept the Hornets ahead, though, until a last-second layup by Dee Singleton put Hope on top 32-31 at intermission.

For two minutes of the third segment the Lady Cats were rulers, however, immediately running up a 40-31 spread while Mineral Springs was committing eight turnovers.

With that cut down to 47-44 with only the final quarter to play, but the Lady Cats kept ahead comfortably until two late baskets cut it to 60-54.

Salcedo had her best game scoring, finishing with 29 points to lead both teams. Dee Singleton was next with 24, Jo McKamie added four, and Eva Jo Hale finished with three points. Diane Myrick mounted 23, Cindy Bridgeman 11, and Mandy McAllister joined Debbie Oliver at 10 points for Mineral Springs.

For the "B" Lizards, their best team effort was shown during the second half, as the host Hornets had four players out with the flu but still put up a fine fight.

Starting three juniors and two sophomores, the "B" Lizards stayed close at 16-14 by the end of the first period. Under a more experienced alignment, Hope fared less well before the half, falling nine points behind before pulling to within 35-32 at the break.

Over a three minute stretch midway in the third quarter, though, the first group outscored the Hornets 14-2, and suddenly the "B" boys were on top 52-47.

This lowered to 52-50 after three periods of play, but the press took its best effect in the next few minutes of play. Everybody got in on the act as Hope raced to a 60-50 bulge, and from there the victory margin steadily increased to the end. With the win the "B" Lizards improved their season record to 3-5 for the year.

Stengel Pays No Attention to Doctor

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

GLENDALE, Calif. (AP) — The doctor gave strict orders. The news conference was to last 15 minutes. No more.

Thirty minutes went by and the old boy still was going strong. It took hospital attaches a little more than oral persuasion to end it and get him out of the room.

Casey Stengel, it may be reported today, is back in excellent health.

He also was back in his handsome home in Glendale.

The switchboard at Glendale Memorial Hospital and its mail room can attest.

"Calls, calls and a huge bundle of mail every day. But Mr. Stengel is such a wonderful man. Amazing," said Elaine Beers, the hospital's public relations director.

Stengel, who belies his 78 years, underwent recent surgery for closure of a perforated ulcer. While never in serious condition, he was placed in the intensive care ward because of his age. This was a galling situation.

Nurses insisted he appear at this news gathering in gown and robe. Casey argued. He wanted to don street clothes.

"People will get the idea I'm sick if I go down there in my nightgown," said Casey. The nurse won out.

"Night shirt or whatever. Casey erased any doubts as to his physical and verbal shape.

Interviewers asked relatively few questions. The reason was simple. Casey didn't give anyone much time to ask a question. It was Stengelese at its finest.

An executive with the New York baseball Mets, the club's first manager 10 years ago, portions of Casey's lengthy, seldom interrupted remarks involved the team.

"The Mets never had a Hall of Fame player until I got in but Seaver Seaver is a fine pitcher which if he hasn't had a winning season yet he will have this year, meaning he'll win more than he loses, and Hodges was a great first baseman who could move his foot quick off the bag and he's a good teacher for our young ball players . . . and those New York Mets, terrific."

"Return to the dead baseball? Well, if I was manager which I did for many years it would depend on the type of ball club I had and the condition of the play in field like the wet up in St. Paul's Francisco and it was hard at Dodger Stadium . . ."

Casey is back in midseason form and the season hasn't even started.

Sinatra Heads Group Seeking the Dolphins

MIAMI (AP) — Frank Sinatra and a Miami businessman are waiting in the wings in case a bitter backstage feud dissolves the ownership of the Miami Dolphins, the Miami Herald reported in Wednesday editions.

The Herald reported Sinatra and Salvatore A. "Sam" Rizzo are hoping to buy into the American Football League Dolphins if the present partnership between General Manager J. P. Sesh and majority stockholder Willard "Bud" Keland falls.

Pro football Commissioner Pete Rozelle is arbitrating the dispute between Robbie and Keland. Millionaire Keland of Racine, Wis., wants to fire Robbie, the Herald said, but cannot because of contractual arrangements.

The Herald identified Rizzo as a former race track owner in Massachusetts and operator of a gambling casino in Nevada.

Campanella, Musial Hall Fame Rookies

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Stan Musial and Roy Campanella, brilliant rivals for 10 National League seasons, have become rookie teammates on baseball's most illustrious roster.

Musial, the incomparable St. Louis stalwart who holds more individual records than any player in history, and Campanella, the great Brooklyn catcher whose career was cut short by a crippling auto accident, were voted into the Hall of Fame Tuesday.

A record panel of 340 veteran members of the Baseball Writers Association of America enshrined the pair, who won NL Most Valuable Player awards three times apiece and were among the most popular diamond stars in modern times.

Musial was swept into the Hall in his first year of eligibility. The slugging outfielder-first baseman Cardinal stand out for 22 years, was named on 317 ballots. Only Ted Williams had ever drawn a higher percentage of the votes cast.

Campanella, paralyzed from the waist down since his mishap 11 years ago this month, made the Cooperstown, N. Y., shrine after having fallen eight votes short of the necessary 75 per cent a year ago.

This time, he was named on 270 ballots and became the second Negro among the 95 players in the Hall. The first was Jackie Robinson, Campy's Dodger teammate.

Lou Boudreau, former Cleveland shortstop and manager, was the only other candidate to receive more than 200 votes. He got 218, 37 less than were required.

"I wasn't concerned about the vote being unanimous," said Stan the Man, 48, who retired in 1963 and now is a Cardinal vice president. "I was just concerned about being voted in. A majority is enough."

"I'm certainly pleased. And I'm happy to be able to go in with Roy because down through the years he was a great opponent."

"This completes my baseball career, and there's nothing more I can ask for in life," said Campanella, 44, who owns a liquor store and remains active in baseball as an instructor at clinics in the New York area.

He also paid tribute to his co-entrants into the hall. "Musial," said Campanella, "was not only one of the most outstanding hitters, but one of the top gentlemen in the National League."

Musial set 64 individual records that still stand, including NLQ career marks for hits, 3,630, and runs batted in, 1,951.

He compiled a lifetime batting average of .331, with a 1948 high of .376, and led the league's hitters seven times. He hit 475 home runs.

Campanella, one of the finest defensive catchers in history, batted .276 lifetime and hit 242 home runs for the Dodgers. He established NL highs for a catcher by waiting 41 homers and knocking in 142 runs in 1953, the second of his three MVP seasons.

Knicks Are Hottest Team in the NBA

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Baltimore and Los Angeles easily padded their division leads, but the New York Knicks established themselves as the hottest team in the National Basketball Association—and the hurtliest.

The Knicks made it 17 victories in 19 outings with a 113-106 decision over the less than super Seattle SuperSonics, but the triumph was a painful one. The Knicks lost scoring star Cazzie Russell, their second casualty in the last five games.

Russell suffered a broken ankle at the end of the third period in a scramble for a loose ball and will be in a cast from six to eight weeks, Phil Jackson, a reserve forward, was lost last week to a back injury.

Russell had 18 points and the Knicks had a 88-82 lead before he left, and went on to score their 13th consecutive home court victory behind Willis Reed's 27 points. Len Wilkens had 31 points for Seattle, which has lost 18 of 20.

Baltimore, meanwhile, breezed past the host Chicago Bulls 116-93 for a four-game lead in the Eastern Division, and visiting Los Angeles crushed Milwaukee 122-105 for a three-game bulge in the West as second-place Atlanta lost at San Diego 124-113.

Cage Assists Should Be Credited

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

There ought to be a law, or something, to give full credit to the players who hand out assists in college basketball.

No national record for assists is listed in the NCAA basketball guide and only a few individual school brochures give such tabulation.

The agile 7-foot-2 star now holds everz UCLA record except one. No record of assists is given, however.

These are the UCLA rerords Alcindor has set:
Most points 18 a single game — 61. Most points in a single season — 870. Most points during UCLA career — 1,908. Most points in a Pacific-8 Conference season — 384. Most points for three Pacific-8 Conference seasons — 798. Most rebounds in one season — 466. Most rebounds during UCLA career — 1,102. Most free throws attempted in one season — 274.

Alcindor still has to break the UCLA single-game rebound record of 28 set by Willie Naulls in 1956 against Arizona State. The most Alcindor has so far in one game is 24 in 1967, his sophomore year.

Louisiana State, in the Southeastern Conference, does list assists in its all-time varsity records. Rich Lupo holds the single game mark of 13, set against Florida State. Pistol Pete Maravich, the nation's leading scorer, also holds the LSU single season assist mark of 105 set last year.

The SEC also keeps conference records in assists. So far this season Bill Hann of Tennessee leads with an average of 6.0 to Maravich's 5.2. Walley Tinker of Auburn has a 4.5 average. Mike Casey of Kentucky 4.1 and Tom Hagan of Vanderbilt 3.4.

Kentucky's school records list Larry Conley as holding the single season assist mark of 112 in 27 games in 1964. No single game mark is listed.

Ricky Ray of West Virginia handed out 13 assists in one game, against Syracuse in Feb. 1964, for a Mountain State home court record. West Virginia's assist record on the road is held by Tom Williams with 15 against Davidson at Charlotte in March, 1967.

None of the top 20 teams in The Associated Press rankings saw action on a dull Tuesday night. In the few major games, Northwestern beat Michigan 100-85, Holy Cross trounced Dartmouth 86-62 and Marshall edged Chicago Loyola 78-76. All were home court triumphs.

Bowman Not Complaining About Gift

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

MONTREAL (AP) — They say getting a tie is like kissing your sister—nice, but not very exciting. But Scotty Bowman, coach of the National Hockey League's West Division All-Stars, wasn't complaining about his tam's 3-3 deadlock against the power-laden East in the 22nd annual All-Star Game Tuesday night.

That's because the West wasn't supposed to get a victory or a tie in this game. Bowman's team was made up of the cream of the expansionist division, who in real life are the castoffs of the older East Division.

But the West scrambled all night long, led for most of the game, and finally gained the tie on a goal by Minnesota's Claude Larose in the final three minutes of play.

"The tie was good for hockey in general, and certainly good for the teams in our division," said Bowman, coach of the St. Louis Blues. "We got good performances from a lot of players."

Most of them—until Minnesota's line of Larose, Danny Grant and Danny O'Shea combined for the tying goal—were Bowman's own Blues. He had eight of them in the West line-up.

"The only time I enjoyed the game," said Toe Blake, who returned from retirement to coach the East stars, "was when we led 3-2."

Only they had the lead, the East turned it on but Coach Jacques Plante and the West held fast and then Larose's late goal made Bowman ready not only to kiss his sister, but give her a hug, as well.

"It was a great chance for them to show that they could do against some very select opposition and I thought they came through very well," the coach said of his expansion team.

Ira Berkow NEA Sports Columnist

SPRING VALLEY, N.Y. — (NEA) — It seemed that Bob Foster, silhouetted against the wide window in the background, was too thin to even hold up the boxing gloves. Too thin, that is, until he drove a straight right to the chin which dropped his sparring partner flat on his face. "My god!" said Tommy Loughran, the old champ. "He punches very hard for a man with a frail body."

The light-heavyweight title belt that Tommy Loughran held in the late 1920s is now possessed by Foster. The 6-3 1/2, 175-pound Foster was in his last week of training for his first defense of that championship. He meets Frankie DePaula at Madison Square Garden Jan. 22. But now he was sweating in the Camelot Country Club, closed to all but fight people and a floor-to-ceiling fireplace.

"Bob Foster will now box Dick Hall," said a man with a microphone at ringside. As the first sparring partner was helped out of the ring, Loughran, now 66, stood at ringside in neat pin-striped suit and straight-up, chest-out posture.

Boom-boom-boom, went Foster's quick fists against the headguard of Hall. In harmony, grunt-grunt-grunt went Hall. "It is the great natural body balance that gives him that extraordinary power," said Loughran. "The only man I have ever seen like that was Bob Fitzsimmons. He weighed 156 pounds but fought a lot bigger men like Jim Jeffries who weighed 225."

"Foster could fight anyone, too. He has the height and mobility and power to beat anyone. He is definitely the best fighter today." Turning to Mushky Salow, Foster's trainer, Loughran said, "It would be a mistake to put weight on him. He ruined Floyd Patterson. He was a natural light-heavy. But became stiffened when they put weight on his shoulders."

"We couldn't put weight on Foster if we wanted to," said Salow. "He just can't gain. He's thin to the bone."

"Yes," said Loughran. "he could beat anyone. Cassius Clay does not have his preliminary in the Garden the night Foster beat Tiger."

If Foster, 30, gets over this hurdle he may choose to mingle with the heavyweights in the future. He has no trouble making the 175-pound weight limit but knows the big money is with the big boys. However, his two knockout defeats have come when he ventured among the heavies for matches with Doug Jones and Zora Folley.

The Jersey crowd that has not had a local favorite in years, has rallied behind DePaula, 28, like they used to line up behind Mickey Walker, Tony Galento, Guy Lesautch, and Tipsey Larkun. If DePaula scores an upset, Jersey City will be blazing.

You may remember what happened to Sonns and the Colts.

Because of the thunder in DePaula's right fist, many greet the reported 5-1 odds against him as too high. Despite the experience of Foster, making the first defense of his world light-heavyweight title, DePaula has a solid army of backers who will swarm over the bridges and through the tunnels to swell the Madison Square Garden box office.

The Jersey invasion is expected to bring the attendance to about 15,000 and the gate to $150,000 for the 9:30 p.m., EST, 15-round match. It will be carried on a special television hookup, Sports Network, Inc., to a limited number of cities but New York and the surrounding area will be blacked out.

Foster will have a big physical edge, towering over his squat opponent by seven inches and enjoying a nine-inch advantage in reach, a Mutt and Jeff match. The 6-foot-3 1/2-inch champ will be punching down at his 5-8 1/2 opponent, just as he was when he won the crown by knocking out Dick Tiger with a left hook last May 24.

"I'll do it in three rounds," said Foster, who needed only four to flatten Tiger for the first time in his career.

"Somebody is going to go and I think it will be him," said DePaula, who fought the walkout power. Funny thing, I bumped into Clay on Broadway not long ago. He was going to see that play, 'The Great White Hope.' I asked him why he would patronize a man like Jack Johnson who did so much harm for his race. Johnson did not know how to conform to society, I told Clay. Clay said, 'But he was a great fighter.' I said yes he was. He had class, but only in the ring.

"There were colored fighters in those days who were credits to their race and to the ring—Joe Gans, Sam Langford, Joe Walcott, The Barbados Demon, The Kentucky Rosebud, gee, I forgot his real name. I told Clay that these were the men to look up to."

In the ring now, Foster was alone, stripped of his gloves, headgear and heavy supporter. "Hip City" by Junior Walker was put on the phonograph and Foster, dangling like a skeleton, danced to the music.

"That's good," said Loughran, scratching his flattened nose and smiling. "Keeps the legs and whole body toned up. Those are the movements you need in the ring, to bob out of danger in an instant

Elegant Residents of French Street Want Prostitutes Ousted

By JOHN VINOCUR
Associated Press Writer
PARIS (AP) — The rich and elegant residents of the French capital's most exclusive street are pestering the police to chase the prostitutes away from their front gates.
The complaints come from the Avenue Foch, the wide, leafy thoroughfare that is home in Paris to Aristotle Onassis, Sophia Loren and a thousand other wealthy capitalists, conspicuous consumers and society page fixtures.
After dark prostitutes in minicars come from outside the area to prowling the avenue while a few others take station in front of the ivy-covered gates in front of the mansions and luxurious apartment houses. They like Avenue Foch because it is quiet and free of heavy automobile and pedestrian traffic.
The girls in cars stop for men waiting along the street or flash their lights at a car with only a man in it. The residents find the lights annoying, also.
"I know it's extremely disagreeable to these people," said the chief of the vice squad, Pierre Ottavio. "We're harassing the girls as best we can and arrests are made every night. But the girls are clever, and arrests are not easy."
An arrest can't be made until a girl actually solicits a customer. Ottavio says the Avenue

Replaces Finch in California

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Ed Reinecke, the state's 39th lieutenant governor, took office Tuesday night after flying from Washington following his resignation from the House of Representatives.
Reinecke, 45, of Studio City, is a Republican and was appointed by Gov. Ronald Reagan.
The lieutenant governor succeeds Robert Finch, the new secretary of health, education and welfare in the Nixon administration.

At Tuesday's regular Kiwanis Club meeting at Town & Country Club, Johnston, science demonstrator for Southwestern Bell, showed the club "The Incredible Machine."

The demonstration included cordless telephones and computers that talk and draw pictures. It also showed how a telephone call can automatically be transferred to another number.

Mr. Johnston was introduced by Aubrey Albritton. George Frazier officially inducted Billy Butler into the club. Guests were Mrs. Butler and Key Club Members Jimmy Singleton and Tom Sorrells.

Muskie Lifts Page From Nixon's Book

By G. C. THELEN Jr.
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edmund Muskie, lifting a page from the Nixon handbook of political campaigning, takes off today on a meat-and-potatoes banquet blitz he thinks could lead to the White House in 1972.
Speeches to the Democratic party faithful in Dallas and Fort Worth are the first stops on a tour that by March will have taken him to 12 states with time out for prestige-building visits to Japan and England.
The Maine Democrat defeated 1968 vice presidential candidate says, of course, that he hasn't decided at this early stage whether to seek his party's presidential nomination in 1972.

But he admits interest in the idea and readily acknowledges that he'll be testing the winds and stashing away IOUs from local Democrats as he ranges from coast to coast.

"That is what Nixon did so much of—and so well—during the years the Republicans were out of office," Muskie told an interviewer.

"Whether there will be a personal payoff for me, as there was for him, I don't know. But I think the effort is worthwhile," he added.

Muskie sees his role as opening a dialogue between local Democrats and the national organization and giving party workers "the feeling that their efforts are recognized by the national leadership."

By taking the Nixon route, Muskie has definitely determined to make the banquet circuit his main platform, instead of the Senate floor. And he has some misgivings.

"I have decided to postpone for the moment at least strengthening my position in the Senate," he said. "In time I may regret that I put aside an opportunity to advance in the Senate."

"But if that is true, I may even regret having run for vice president," he added. "But I don't think so. I think that in this business you have to go where the fates take you—as long as you make progress."

Pupils Care for School, Raise Money

By ROBERT BRINK
Associated Press Writer
NEW LENOX, Ill. (AP) — In an age of student revolts, a band of hardy pupils has succeeded in raising enough money to keep their high school operating for at least three more years.

The 557 pupils at a Roman Catholic high school in New Lenox, a town of 2,400 in northern Illinois, have raised nearly $30,000 in cash and pledged all the money is still rolling in.
Providence High School was about to be closed because of a huge budget deficit and a shortage of teachers before the pupils and their parents went to work.

Now the school is assured of staying in operation for at least three to five years.
Bishop Romeo Blanchette of the Joliet Roman Catholic Diocese has announced that the effort had paid off and that the school will remain open.

Transition Is Abrupt

WASHINGTON (AP) — The transition from president to private citizen is an abrupt one, as Lyndon Johnson found out Monday in a lot of little ways.
For one thing, the moment his limousine crossed into Maryland on its way to the airport his single police escort abruptly disappeared.

Should Want to Be President

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lyndon Johnson believes every body in the country should want to be president—including his grandson Lyn Nugent.
"If he behaves himself and does the right thing and works hard," Johnson told a group of well wishers Monday, "then he'll have the opportunity to become president."

Hopes Relation Will Last Long

WASHINGTON (AP) — When President Nixon discovered Guy Lombardo was playing at one of the inaugural balls he visited, Nixon recalled that he had danced to the band leader's music the night World War II ended.
An Associated Press dispatch which was displayed across the country brought donations from Walnut Creek, Calif., to Oshkosh, Wis., to South Orange, N.J., to Fairmount, Tenn.
"We hear so much nowadays about students trying to demolish their schools, and the efforts of Providence High were most refreshing and encouraging," wrote a woman from Walnut Creek, Calif., along with her donations were as much as $1,000.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Let Doctor Decide Proper Drug for You

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

It is said that Americans take more drugs per capita than any other people in the world. Although most of us know that there is no perfect drug, many of us hope that one will be found that will exactly fit our needs. Drug manufacturers and physicians must try new preparations for several years before they can evaluate their safety and efficiency. Some drugs have to be withdrawn from the market even after they have been approved by the Food and Drug Administration because of undesirable long-term side effects.

Sensational news stories about the value of a new remedy are, more often than not, exaggerations. These stories invariably dwell on the good qualities of the drug and soft pedal the bad. The more reputable drug manufacturers, however, avoid undue publicity for their products until they are sure that the claims for them are sound.

Your doctor is often the victim of a squeeze play. When a new drug has received unwarranted publicity, his patients demand that he prescribe it for them. This has led to the injudicious and sometimes harmful use of many otherwise valuable drugs— notably antibiotics, vitamins and tranquilizers. The safest plan is to let your doctor decide what drug you need without any prompting from the sidelines. Once he has given you his prescription, be sure to follow his instructions to the letter. If any unusual symptoms develop while you are taking the drug, report them to him promptly.

Q—My eyes and nose run a lot. I am taking Trimeton which helps me. Is it given for sinus trouble? Is there any danger in taking this or ChlorTrimeton continuously? Would air conditioning help or aggravate my trouble?

A—These two closely related antihistamines are given for sinusitis when it is due to an allergy. In properly regulated doses they can be taken indefinitely. They may cause drowsiness and those who take them are warned not to drive a car within two or three hours of their last dose. Air conditioning, if not set too cold, should help by keeping pollen and other allergens out of the air you breathe.

Absence for Illness Has Effect on Tax Paid

Editor's note: It is time to think about the income tax again. This is Chapter Five of a series reviewing the regulations, with emphasis on taking advantage of all exclusions and deductions legally due you.

By RAY DE CRANE
NEA Publications

Sometimes it pays to be sick. At income tax filing time, to compensate in part, you can receive real savings on your tax return if you were sick and out of work during 1968, if everything falls right for you.

Called the sick pay exclusion, the tax-saver is far better than the usual deduction on your return. A so-called Page 1 reduction against gross income it still gives you the option of itemizing deductions after it is claimed or settling for one of the two optional methods of claiming deductions.

It has an additional built-in bonus because it is a reduction against gross income. It reduces the adjusted gross income figure, the base upon which the 3 per cent medical deduction is calculated. This means it increases the medical deduction to which you might be entitled.

To be eligible for the sick pay exclusion you must have been out of work either because of sickness or injury during some part of 1968. In addition you must have been paid by your employer during this period of enforced absence.

The extent of your sick pay exclusion, if any, is determined by how long you were out of work and the percentage of normal pay

It is mighty hard to get an absolute top score in a continent-wide game but we think that East-West's plus 500 on hand seven will come close to doing the job.

East and West were playing the Landy convention in which the two club overcall of an opening no-trump shows both majors. We don't approve of East's two-club call. He only held four spades and he was woefully lacking in high cards.

Connecticut bridge teacher Sally Johnson, who sat West, was not happy being asked to bid a major but she responded with two spades the actual pay received, or $75 a week, whichever is lesser.

There is still a further tax break for the person who receives 75 per cent or less than normal pay. If he spent at least one day in the hospital during any part of his treatment for illness or injury, his credit begins from the very first day of such enforced absence.

After the first 30 calendar days this worker, too, has his exclusion stepped up to the weekly maximum of $100 or actual pay, whichever is lesser.

The rules may be complicated, but the tax saving can be substantial for the person who is willing to take his time, count the days carefully on the calendar and calculate his exclusion.

The "Cut Your Own Taxes" book, available through this newspaper, gives further examples illustrating the benefits of the sick pay exclusion.

without histrionics to imply that she didn't really have a spade suit.

As a matter of fact, two spades would not be a very bad contract and she might even have made it but South got into the bidding with a three-diamond call.

This was Sally's cup of tea and she doubled. East looked over his collection of nothing and finally decided to pass and hope that Sally could set three diamonds all by herself. After all, he saw no future in taking out the double.

Sally had an easy opening lead, the seven of hearts. South let his ride to his king, then played a diamond. Sally ducked and North was in with the king.

He played a club next, whereupon Sally took her ace and led a spade. South finessed dummy's jack and East collected a trick with his king. He promptly led a heart which Sally ruffed for the third defensive trick. Since she still held three good trumps, South was down two.

Who-Dunnit Story
Behind ABC Audit;
Cat and Mouse

Kelly Bryant is now Secretary of State, but every time The Star has its annual ABC circulation audit both of us think about the thunder-and-lightning that accompanied our initial audit—for the last half of 1949. Back yonder Kelly was running the opposition Hope Journal. No previous Hope newspaper had joined ABC and its system of "bank-examiner" audits—but Kelly did so in 1947. The Star recognized the threat and applied for ABC membership in 1948. An out-of-town ABC member promised to help The Star install the audit system—but failed to deliver, and we missed making the 1948 report.

I installed the audit system myself for the last half of 1949 and early in 1950 reported to Chicago our ABC book and supporting records were complete and ready for audit. But just before the field auditor's arrival here in March our filing cabinets were raided and most of the audit-supporting records were stolen, although the main ABC record book remained O.K. in the safe.

Kelly and I joined in a cash reward for recovery of the records and apprehension of the robber. We finally got the records back, in a water-soaked mail pouch retrieved from a creek—but none of us ever caught up with the robber.

Not that we cared too much, ABC completed its audit. The Star doubled the Journal's circulation—and Kelly and yours truly reached an agreement that returned Hope to a one-paper town.

Kelly was a competent and rugged competitor who made all 11 years of the Journal challenging and exciting—and I salute him.

Over the 19 years of our ABC membership the field auditors have told us The Star's circulation records are among the best in America—but we certainly had an inauspicious beginning in 1949.

Speaking of dog stories, here's one about a cat, from the Facts and Fancies column of Editor Louis Graves in the Nashville News Jan. 21:

Jack Venable's cat-and-mouse tale has a new angle.

This is the way Jack tells it to friends.

On this cold, foggy morn before the sun was up, he poured milk into a pan before letting the tomcat into the house, sort of preparing the feline dish ahead of time. When he opened the door, in walked the cat. Instead of pausing for refreshments at the milk pan, Tomcat pranced past the container and over to the icebox.

Jack shouted some instructions about getting to the milk. Tomcat opened his mouth, freed, a small mouse broke away to freedom under the icebox. The cat had held the mouse so tenderly, said mouse was unharmed and now lives in the Venable household, leaving Jack in a quandary: what to do about a cat that brings a live mouse into the house?

Hearing on Drinks Bill Is Delayed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The House Revenue and Taxation Committee today voted to defer until next week a public hearing on the administration's controversial measure to legalize the sale of mixed drinks.

The request for the delay came from Rep. James Dawson of Conway, who on Monday delayed action on the bill by one day when he objected to the normally routine second reading.

Rep. Ray Smith Jr. of Hot Springs, chairman of the committee, said he would announce the date and time of the hearing when he could find a suitable place to hold it.

About 100 persons had jammed into a legislative conference room for today's scheduled hearing.

Direct Line to White House Used When the Pueblo Was Attacked Dereliction of Duty in Pueblo Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., says that if testimony is upheld charging the USS Pueblo was inadequately equipped for defense and destruction of secret equipment, "then someone higher up in the line of command has been guilty of a very grave dereliction of duty."

Russell, chairman of the powerful Senate Appropriations Committee, said that testimony by the Pueblo's captain, Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher at a Navy court of inquiry indicates "a tragic mixture of errors" in outfitting the ship.

Bucher testified that the Navy failed to provide adequate means to destroy secret intelligence equipment, efficient guns

Older Folks Aspire to a Pattern of Life in Which They Dream

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — In an abnormal time, it is the desire of most people over 25 years of age to be normal.

They aspire to a pattern of life in which they will think, dream and act within limits that satisfy themselves and yet also make them acceptable to their friends and neighbors.

How can you tell if you have reached your goal? What standards of conformity or nonconformity do you apply?

Admittedly it is a difficult thing to measure. But here is a ready-made guide that may be of help. Simply ask yourself these questions:

When trouble comes your way, do you invariably admit it was your fault, confess your mistakes, and manfully shoulder the blame?

During the football season, if the wife or kids want to switch to something besides a gridiron game, do you accede to their wishes because you believe that in a well-run family every member has equal rights?

Can you give up a bad habit — such as smoking, drinking or eating jumbo sandwiches after midnight — for three months without a single relapse?

Do you always tell the truth in every situation. In other words are you the kind of character they used to describe in the Old West by saying: "His word's as good as his bond?"

If someone tells you that a new best-selling novel is terribly, terribly naughty, does that reinforce your determination not to read it, since you are against filthy literature?

Suppose you were already 15 minutes late to an appointment on a rainy day, and had a 10-year head start on an old lady racing to get the only cab visible for blocks. On reaching the cab door, would you gallantly hold it open for the slow-footed beldame and try to find another cab for yourself in the pelted rain?

How about your tax bills, buddy? Have you always leaned over backward in dealing with Uncle Sam? Have you never fudged on a report to him even a teensy-weensy bit?

Well, as Gov. Al Smith of New York, used to say, "Now let's look at the record."

If you answered each of these queries with a guilty "no," quit worrying. You're too normal ever to need a headshrinker.

But if to each of them your answer was an invariable "yes," you have a problem. You are clearly out of the usual norms of normality.

Christian Civic Foundation Holds Meet

The Executive Committee of the Christian Civic Foundation held another in a series of meetings last week at the Diamond Cafe.

Representative Talbot Felld, Jr., was invited to meet the committee to discuss some of the bills now pending in the Legislature and also to discuss some local problems.

Beginning this week membership cards will be mailed to the local chairman in each community and he in turn will get them out to the people. The month of February will be used as "Membership Drive" month.

Every person in Hempstead County interested in the welfare of the County should join this organization. This is open to all races. There will be a membership for young people without charge for enrollment.

As soon as the membership drive is over, we plan to call a mass meeting of this group and together will set forth some definite objectives.

"We urge all of our people to read carefully the court docket as published in the Hope Star and see what penalties are being assessed in the way of fines and jail sentences," the Rev. Gerald W. Trussell said. Reports will be given from time to time as to the progress being made.

Johnson's Cook Also Retires

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A man who used to cook for former President Johnson retired from government service on the same day as his ex-boss.

Steward L.C. Leopoldo T. Osano, a veteran of 22 years in the Navy, left his last assignment at Philadelphia Naval Hospital to begin a new career as a barber.

From June, 1963, to August, 1966, Osano, 44, cooked for Presidents Johnson and Kennedy at the White House.

Nobody Heard the Trainer

HOLLYWOOD, CALIF. (AP) — Comedian Red Skelton was rehearsing a skit with a 550-pound performing lion when the animal's chain snapped Tuesday.

"The trainer was yelling, 'Don't move! Don't move!' but no one heard him," said Red. "Everyone was trying to find a safe place to exit."

The lion bumped Skelton aside in a charge across the stage to the backstage area, where he curled up quietly.

The skit for the Red Skelton show on CBS Television — was rewritten quickly. Skelton engaged in a prize fight with a man in a gorilla suit.

Farewell for Clark Clifford

WASHINGTON (AP) — A military honor guard lined a Pentagon corridor Tuesday in a farewell to Clark M. Clifford, who served as Secretary of Defense for nearly a year.

Participating in the ceremony, which was forced indoors by the rain, were top civilian and military officials, including the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

The traditional 19-gun salute, which could not be moved indoors, even in the Pentagon, was fired in the rain.

Observatory Is Rocketed Into Space

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A solar observatory rocketed into space today to study the sun during a period of maximum flare activity and to help warn astronauts on the moon of perilous radiation storms.

The satellite, OSO6, rode aloft in the nose of a three-stage Delta rocket at 11:48 a.m. EST, aiming for an orbit 350 miles above the earth, where its sensors can peer at the seething sun from above the distorting blanket of the atmosphere.

A spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported early phases of the flight went very smoothly after the Delta blazed into the sky.

The satellite is the fifth in a series of Orbiting Solar Observatories launched by the space agency.

Woman Found Strangled at Prescott

PRESCOTT, Ark. (AP) — Betty Arrington of near Prescott was found dead in her home Tuesday night, apparently a victim of strangulation, Sgt. Travis Ward of the Arkansas State Police said today.

Ward said a towel was draped about the woman's neck when she was found by her sister, who shared the same house.

Favorite Dog Has Returned

WASHINGTON (AP) — Yuki, former President Lyndon B. Johnson's favorite mongrel dog returned to the Texas ranch Tuesday, a day after his master.

"Yuki helped with the transition," a White House aide said. The mongrel met President Nixon's two dogs when they arrived ahead of time at the White House.

The White House beagles were sent to the ranch before the change in administration Monday.

Speedy Agreement by North Vietnam Hopeful Omen in Peace Talks

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH
Associated Press Writer

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnam's speedy agreement to begin substantive peace talks Saturday appeared a hopeful omen to some U.S. officials today, but they warned again that long and difficult bargaining lies ahead.

These officials, said the apparent willingness to negotiate seriously does not necessarily mean Hanoi and the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front will reduce their demands.

This was apparent in an editorial of the official Hanoi newspaper Nhan Dan, broadcast Tuesday by Radio Hanoi a few hours after the agreement for a Saturday session was announced.

The only way to halt the Vietnam war, said Nhan Dan, is for the United States to comply with Hanoi's four-point program and the five NLF demands—an end to American "aggression in Vietnam," withdrawal of all non-Vietnamese troops and liquidation of their bases, noninterference in South Vietnam's political future and South Vietnam's eventual reunification with the North.

Nhan Dan said the United States should see SPEEDY (on page ten)

Suddenly Warren, Nixon Get Cosy

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eleven members of President Nixon's Cabinet were sworn in today, and, at one point during the 20-minute ceremony, Nixon raised his own right hand—almost forgetting he'd done that two days ago.

Chief Justice Earl Warren administered the oath individually to the 11 department heads at an 8 a.m., nationally televised ceremony in the East Room of the White House.

Also taking the oath because they will sit in on Cabinet meetings were Budget Director Robert P. Mayo and Charles W. Yost, ambassador to the United Nations.

The 12th Cabinet appointee, Republican Gov. Walter J. Hickel of Alaska, did not participate. His nomination as secretary of the interior has hit at least a momentary snag in the Senate where some members question his devotion to the cause of conservation.

Nixon and Warren, long reported at personal and political odds, are seeing a lot of each other lately—even to the point of sharing a morning pot of coffee before today's ceremonies.

Warren was at the White House, too, to swear in 81 members of Nixon's personal staff, including secretaries who, while not required to take an oath, were invited to participate in the event so they would feel

Major Viet Cong Supply Base Found

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — American air cavalrymen leapfrogging along the Cambodian border north of Saigon by helicopter uncovered a major Viet Cong supply base Tuesday and without firing a shot seized the second largest munitions stockpile captured in the war, military spokesmen reported today.

The U.S. Command also announced that three more million-dollar jet fighters were shot down in South Vietnam Monday and Tuesday. Two of the pilots were rescued; the third was killed.

A spokesman said the air cavalrymen pulled 30 tons of rockets, mortars, recoilless rifle shells and explosives from a complex of 30 bunkers 60 miles north-northwest of Saigon and only seven miles from the Cambodian border.

Previously, U.S. and South Vietnamese troops have captured more than 600 tons of enemy weapons, ammunition and food up and down the country in the last three weeks, enough to feed 27,000 troops for three weeks and to equip 1,000 Viet Cong soldiers fully. The capture of supplies and munitions northwest of Saigon is believed to have been a major factor in the failure of the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese to mount a winter offensive against the South Vietnamese capital.

The spokesman said there were no enemy troops guarding the stockpile. He said there could be several reasons for this — that the Viet Cong hadn't distributed it quickly enough, that they took a chance that it might never be found, or that they fled when they realized they were outnumbered.

The loss of the three Air Force F100 supersonic fighters raised to 333 the number of American planes downed in combat in the South.

One plane was hit on a strike mission Tuesday near Saigon and crashed while making a landing approach outside Bien Hoa air base, 15 miles north of the capital. The pilot did not eject.

Meanwhile, U.S. forces tried to cordon off an enemy village 65 miles south of Da Nang, but failed to trap an enemy force there. Fifteen miles to the east, the drive to gain control of the Batangan Peninsula was in its 10th day and meeting little resistance.

The cordon operation in the populous coastal lowlands was never completed in time to prevent 150 enemy soldiers from slipping out of the village, which had been abandoned by its population.

About 400 men of the U.S. 14th Light Infantry Brigade partially encircled the village Monday morning after a 30-man patrol came under sniper fire in the area. The fighting intensified through the day but contact broke off when night fell. By then the Americans had a partial cordon around three sides of the village. Officers said armored personnel carriers tried to block the gap, but the bulk of the enemy force apparently slipped away in the darkness.

Wyatt to Be Buried in Home Town

KINGSTON, Tenn. (AP) — Services will be held here Thursday for Bowden Wyatt, 51, former Tennessee head football coach who died in a Sweetwater Hospital Tuesday of a virus infection.

Wyatt was the only college coach ever to win football championships in three major athletic conferences. He died at Wyoming of the Skyline Conference in 1949-50, Arkansas of the Southwest Conference in 1954 and Tennessee of the Southeastern in 1956.

A native of Kingston, Wyatt was an All-American end at Tennessee in 1938 and began his coaching career as an assistant at Mississippi State in 1939. He was head coach at Wyoming six years and Arkansas two years before coming to Tennessee in 1955.

Aspirin—he appeared emotionally drained when he finished Tuesday. By then he had testified for 12 hours over two days. He resumes his story today.

He did not elaborate on a brief reference to the White House, and was not questioned about it. There was no indication if he had received instructions from anyone. Navy sources said they believed this was the first public mention of messages from the Pueblo directed to the White House.

A White House spokesman said last year, shortly after the Pueblo was seized, that there had been a delay in informing then President Johnson. The delay was attributed to the time it took presidential aide Walt W. Rostow to compile information for a briefing. When the joint chiefs of staff were informed has never been disclosed but the then Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara was said to have received word nine minutes after the Pueblo sent its final message.

By then the North Koreans had taken over the ship, one crewman was wounded fatally and the other 82 aboard were headed for 11 months imprisonment.

When the subchaser was first spotted, Bucher said, he went to the wardroom and looked at it through binoculars.

"There were 10 to 12 people on the bridge, most of them with binoculars trained on us and watching us. I suspected this was nothing more than routine surveillance."

He reported raising flags to show the Pueblo was taking hydrographic tests.

"What nationality?" the sub chaser asked.

"I was not particularly apprehensive," Bucher said but added that he ordered the engines prepared to maneuver and emergency message blanks broken out.

Then, he said, CWO Gene Howard Lacy "reported sighting three torpedo boats headed in our direction, operating from the same location (Wonsan Harbor) as the sub chaser."

The sub chaser then hoisted flags demanding "heave to or I will fire," Bucher said, "I was momentarily confused as to just what he meant by that message since I was dead in the water."

Bucher said he signaled, "I am in international waters."

As the torpedo boats approached, Bucher said Quartermaster Law fixed the Pueblo's location at 15.8 miles from near-

Nations, and Budget Director Robert May.

The new President put in a full day of official work Tuesday, starting with arrival at his oval office at 7:30 a.m. His final appointment, at 5 p.m., was with Calo Plaza, secretary general of the Organization of American States and the first foreign diplomat to meet with him.

Nixon as well as some of his aides apparently had some initial difficulty getting used to their new surroundings. The President confessed that he had not gotten the feel of his office yet and, at one point, blundered into a semipublic hallway trying to find his way around.

HOPE (ARK) STAR, Printed by Offset

est land, Bucher said this was confirmed by Navigator Edward Murphy Jr. and "I myself went down to the wheelhouse and manned the radar ... and confirmed it."

A junior officer asked about scuttling the Pueblo, but Bucher said it would have taken more than 2½ hours and the vessel was in only 30 fathoms of water.

"Also the water temperature was freezing," Bucher said, "A man cannot survive but very few minutes in that kind of water—perhaps less than five minutes."

At this point, Bucher said he ordered his men to prepare to destroy the classified material.

"At about the same time, two MIG aircraft, I believe they were MIG-21s, passed directly over the ship, 'Friar Tuck' (the nickname for the oceanographer) got that damn gear up here," Bucher said he shouted, "I'm leaving!" I said on the bridge, "I'll be damned if they are going to get away with that." So I got under way out to sea.

"I ordered a modified general quarters and hoisted the flag signals, hoping to confuse the sub chaser. 'Thank you for your consideration,'" Bucher said he messaged, "I am departing."

MORE

was completely and hopelessly outgunned. To man our 50-caliber machine guns would have been to send a man up to that gun, and that would have been certain death to him.

Bucher said the sub chaser again signaled "heave to, or I will fire on you."

"I ignored this," Bucher said. Then, he said, the firing started.

Says Sex Is Kept From Children

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A Temple University psychiatrist says parents keep sex education from their children and then criticize and disapprove when the youngsters find out for themselves.

Dr. O. Spurgeon English said Tuesday that sex is "something everybody wants to do but nobody wants to talk about." He said it would be better if it weren't cloaked in so much secrecy.

"It causes a lot of trouble with the young because the older people won't talk up," English said in an interview. "They imply they know everything, but they don't know how to describe what it is."

English contended that if young persons "knew more about what sex was for—its positive values and its dangers—then they would have a more sane and orderly and certainly a richer sexual life later on."

Abrams' Son Has Command of His Own

FIREBASE PLACKHAWK, Vietnam (AP) — 1st Lt. John N. Abrams, 22-year-old son of Creighton W. Abrams, Jr., American commander in South Vietnam, has taken over a command of his own in the rugged central highlands.

He is commanding officer of Troop C, 2nd Squadron, 1st Cavalry, 4th Infantry Division, after serving 18 months as a platoon leader and executive officer.

Officers and men at this base 20 miles east of Pleiku describe the slightly built Abrams as a tough, aggressive military man.

"He is a damn good officer," said Lt. Col. Richard A. Miller, 38, Lindsey, Ohio, the 1st Cavalry commander. "He knows this area like the back of his hand."

On a recent operation, Abrams watched from his helicopter as his troop carried out a search and cordon move. He spotted one Viet Cong running from a village with a weapon.

"Fire a few warning shots," Abrams said to his gunners, adding, "The idea is to capture him."

The Viet Cong vanished into the brush and Abrams ordered his chopper to land. With a handful of men, he took off in pursuit. The man couldn't be found, and the young officer shook his head in disappointment.

"That's one of the most difficult things about this war," he said, "You are never sure who's who."

Going back to his helicopter, Abrams passed one of his medics treating a wounded Viet Cong.

"Keep trying to save him doc," he said.

An older brother, Capt. Creighton W. Abrams 3rd, was here as a battery commander and now is stationed at Ft. Sill, Okla.

States was "forced" to halt the bombing of North Vietnam and accept an undivided round table for the talks. In the same way, it said, the Americans eventually will be forced to accept the Hanoi and NLF programs as a basis for negotiations in Paris.

U.S. and South Vietnamese officials expect their adversaries to restate their position. Washington and Saigon have rejected these demands repeatedly because they consider their fulfillment would be the prelude to a Communist takeover in Saigon. But the Americans and the South Vietnamese will study closely the way in which the other side presents its views to detect any shades of difference or hints of a softening.

Bucher, who has said there was no time to set up a defense or destroy the sensitive spy equipment and files with the equipment provided, surrendered and with the 81 other surviving crew members was held captive until last month. The ship remains in North Korean hands.

Sen. Milton R. Young, R-N.D., who serves on a special committee headed by Russell to supervise operations of the Central Intelligence Agency, said he AS "greatly disturbed" by the Navy command's failure to install so-called destruct equipment.

"It seems incredible that they sent this ship out on a dangerous mission, practically defenseless and without the means to destroy its highly advanced electronics equipment," Young said.
